

I have been made aware that the FCC is considering new legislation that would lessen (remove) the impact of my State's already existing policy on this issue. If the FCC would like to introduce legislation on a national level, let it do so, but allow the states to impose the needed (additional) policy based on locale.

I have been very pleased with the results of Indiana's law, and am most disappointed that the FCC is willing to over ride the effectiveness of our law.

Aside from this particular item, any legislation that would invalidate a State law should be immediately considered suspect. It is the State that should govern the State, not Washington. By pursuing this, it is apparent that there exists a larger problem with the relationship between the Federal and the State governments. Please do not attempt to strip us of the ability to govern ourselves. Please do not entertain any motions that would reduce our effectiveness.

Thank you.
